Well here we are again!! still going But we need help!!! We can only come up with so much stuff we need your stories ,articales and Ideas.

This paper is done on an IBM 286 computer, we can take articales by modern , disk or well typed or printed articales. our computer can do files of all wordprocessors. If there is enough response to this I will start to leave a commputer BBS up one night a week for people to upload and download messages.

So if you like this Idea let me know so I can see if it'll work

Grande opening reveiw

Written By Anne #13

Hi everybody!

Just wanted to say how much fun I had at Barbies grand re-opening! There were a lot of familiar faces as well as a few new ones. Barbie and her crew of volunteers did a fantastic job of remodeling the place and the over abundant "PINK" theme leaves no doubt about the locations feminine orientation! And what about our little Randy!! He may be short but he is LONG on jokes! Randy did a super job of MC'ing and with his quick, sly, and sometimes cutting wit he helped to maintain continuity throughout the evening. Great job Randy we hope you will do it for us again sometime! Who loves ya, baby?

Would like to thank all the participants in the "Chanel 5 TV" band for their willingness to participate on stage in a little live music. It was very short notice but proved to be an interesting experience and was fun. We have had good response from more of the girls who are musically inclined and it now appears that we may be able to offer more live entertainment than we originally anticipated. I am hoping to get everyone who has expressed an interest in participating together in the near future to kick some ideas around. Let's not forget our typ sync'ers. I have a special admiration for those who do this and the girls did a super job that night! Keep up the good work!!! All in all it was a great night with plenty of lovely ladies wearing great outfits. As always, I am anxious to see any photo's that were taken. Hopefully we will see a few in the next issue of the newsletter and with any luck at all they will turn out better than the photo of us "Royalty Ladies" in the Aug/Sep issue. Eeeekkk! that was a terrible shot! I hope that one doesn't get into the commercial version or I might never get my hands on another willing male!!! I've gone on enough for now. Best wishes and I hope to see you all at the upcoming meetings.

Mistress Anne

News!!

Hooker night was a great sucess with a good turnout. Some of the outfits were quite XXX and for once I was tamilly dressed compared to some others there. the team of judges lead by Ken had a tough decision. But with careful deliberation and a lot of help from the crowd Wendy won for having the most arresting outfit. Found any good uses for your prize Wendy???

All in all the night was a great sucess for being our first regular social in the club. The place lent itself to our style very well and made the meeting just that much better.

Another thing should be mentioned Terry was diqualified for reasons that was true!!! she is a proffesional (not hooker but performer) and Sephanie W. Should be charged for littering for that boall

A comment from a concerned Member

Hi Girls!

Just wanted to say Hello again and if I can bend your ear for a while I would like to talk a little about an important subject that "cums up" from time to time. Joking aside, I would like to express my opinion about the negative undercurrent that we occasionally hear about pertaining to the Illusions' executive and the way the club is being operated. In order to save a little space, if you have not already read "Club Report" (Aug/Sept Issue) please do so as both Bryan and Marsha have made some very valid points which concern each and every member of Illusions and reflect directly on the very existence of the club in the future.

My opinion on these matters is as follows: Although I was beginning to meet with others, I was still very much a closet TV until Illusions was formed. I believe I was one of the very first TV's to talk with Barbie, and Bryan and a few others soon followed. I believe we probably all had very similar feelings about our first visit with Barbie, feelings of warmth, openness and gratitude for being accepted for who we are and what we like to do. I remember feeling very good about being accepted in this manner by a very attractive WOMAN who was obviously thrilled by the whole concept of FASHION TV's (Puns again!). When you stop to think about it, those of us who are fortunate enough to have spouses that tolerate, never mind participate, in our alternate lifestyle are very lucky in having someone close to us who, in one way or another, offer that reassurance that we really are quite normal. But what of those who have not yet come to terms with their desires? I believe we are very privileged to have Barbie offering not only her abilities as a seamstress, but her comforting personality as well. In a way, she is performing a type of counselling that does not come with a high price tag like the shrink that many of us have considered or have actually spent time with. So what is all this fuss about "Lingerie by Barbie" being so close to Illusions? I firmly believe had it not been for Barbie's open attitude those first few of us might possibly have never met and there would be no Illusions today. In fact, during a recent discussion, a comment was made about how much higher the membership in Edmonton might be if there was someone of Barbie's character operating a similar business. I see nothing wrong in Barbie's shop indirectly acting as a front for Illusions. And I certainly have no objection if Barbie and Bryan are profiting from being associated with Illusions, in fact I feel we should all wish them financial success be it from Illusions members or other customers. We owe a great deal of gratitude to Barbie and Bryan for all their efforts in organizing the club at the start and keeping it going in a direction that is suitable for the overall TV populace.

There have been a few toes stepped on along the way, some have taken offence and left the club, others have realized the necessity of adhering to club policies and have remained as welcomed members. Let's face it folks, we belong to an organization that has grown tremendously in a very short time. We have made many new friends and it has cost us very little. I believe the majority of Illusions members feel that Barbie and Bryan are doing an excellent job as the Calgary executive and that the Edmonton exec is holding up their end as well.

We need to support these people to the fullest extent so that they can continue to enjoy the responsibilities they have assumed. Ask yourself, are you prepared to fill their shoes if the bickering becomes too much to bare? So, as Marsha said in her report, carefully consider what complaints you may have. Let's not be causing dissension over inconsequential matters but if you feel you have a legitimate complaint that needs investigation bring it to the attention of the executive. So far, anything I have seen that required attention has been dealt with quite fairly. Most of us are aware of a previous TV oriented club that went down the tubes due to attitude problems, let's not have that happen here. Illusions has potential for becoming bigger and better yet but we must work at it!

Bye for now,

Mistress Anne

A letter of Thanks

Happy New Home

Now that the drywall dust has settled and the paint has dried, it is a good chance for me to say my thank you's...

I realize that some small tokens were given out at the grand opening, but I would like to say thank you again, to "ALL" those people who were involved.

Through out the month of august while we renovated, several people spent many hours working hard. Our construction crew of Stephanie, Danielle, and of course Bree, combined their skills and efforts to build everything from a bar to a workable stage, and a comfy make-up room. Never mind just getting the entire space to a comfortable, living area.

Once our painting team of Amanda and Wendy Blew in, the place was upside down again only to surface really "Pretty in Pink". Amandas' knowledge and eagerness to test her painting skills in a warehouse was a chore and a half!!! BRAVO!!!

Karen kept us going with her wit and humor when some of us were weary and need it most. She also used her Maid talents to let new light into our new home.

There are others to, Mistress Anne dug out some old rug which looks super, Ted took an afternoon out to help shop for bar stools, Marsha brought down her fridge and help out with some electrical problems, and Terry help with some decorating touches. There were others that popped in and out with words of encouragement. So thanks again to all who put their love and time into our new home

Thanx.....

As I entered my pre-teen years, my fetish rapidly turned in to a compulsion. By this time, I had long since become bored with mom's "stuff". Still, without resources, not even as much as an allowance, I had resorted to "clothes line theft". The world was a smorgasbord once I had discovered most others wore far more sexy underthings than mother. But like most kids, my success was short lived and was persecuted severely when my "stash" was discovered. Throughout this period, I could never understand why my mother was so upset I was wearing bras and panties all the time. Other than punishing me for stealing, something I could understand, I had always felt she preferred me this way.

Getting caught never deterred my resolve. But I quickly learned odd jobs could be had and money could be made to turn my fantasies in to realities. I can still remember how unnerving my first shopping trip in to fantasy wear was but a hurdle that had to be overcome. Again my wardrobe of underthings would flourish, and time again it would be found and the endless persecution that would follow never seemed to end. By the time I had reached my teens, I had always known when my senior year was in sight, I would be leaving this nest and what was acquired from that time was mine and would remain mine.

It hardly seemed any time had passed from high school to my first marriage. Before we had children, she seemed to readily accept my desire to wear feminine underwear and nighties whenever I had the urge. At this time, I still was not in to much outer wear and was content to remain quite safely in the closet. When our two children arrived, all my feminine fantasies were banished to our bedroom well past their bedtime. Eventually, the persecution would return, this time from my wife, and as a result, after 10 years of mind games, our divorce became imminent. Many other factors were also involved, but my continued desire to dress feminine was a contributing factor.

Before I remarried, I had decided that now that I had found myself back in the dating game, I would "purge" myself once and for all. For the most part, I was content with my life as it was proceeding, but the persistent yearnings always remained and constantly reminded me of my suppressed desires. However, I fought it, well in to the fourth year of my present marriage. I deceived the most open-minded woman I will ever know and love in this life time and hurt her deeply not trusting her enough to handle this hidden side of me. I almost witnessed the breakup of my second marriage - not because I was a transvestite, but because I did not have the nerve to tell her at the beginning of our relationship this special side of me. I thank the powers above we had managed to overcome this hurdle and keep our marriage together. Not only do I now have an understanding and supportive mate, but an active one as well. The lesson learned here is "communication" and lots of it.

To date, this is my great ending. With the help of my wife, friends, and certain professionals, I have almost totally come out of the closet and in to the world the way I choose to live it. They say life begins at 40. If so, it leaves me a year to get the finishing touches together. Then look out. Here I come.

Joline L. Winslow
Small Beginnings
Great Endings

As we have all discovered, we all have our stories, and as we examine each respective story, we find not only are we unique, but we reveal distinct similarities, as well.

Like many other of my like-minded sisters, my beginnings go far into my early childhood. My father, being a typical long distance truck driver, was hardly ever around and could make no claim to being a significant driving force in my life other than a dumping ground to administer additional discipline upon one of his rare visits home. That left me and my siblings to the mercy of my mother's values, which I still believe, if practiced today, would be highly questionable in the letter of today's law.

But unlike my siblings, I was still treated much different than any other member of our little family. The reason for this finally became clear in my 36th year of life. In the 50's and 60's, life was still very much chauvenistic in respect to what was a female thing and what was male. Although I had a sister that was very capable of "woman's work", for the majority of my life, at home, these tasks were allocated to me. My only objection was the lack of participation from the others, thus for the most part, I had to suffer through what might be commonly known as the "cinderella syndrome".

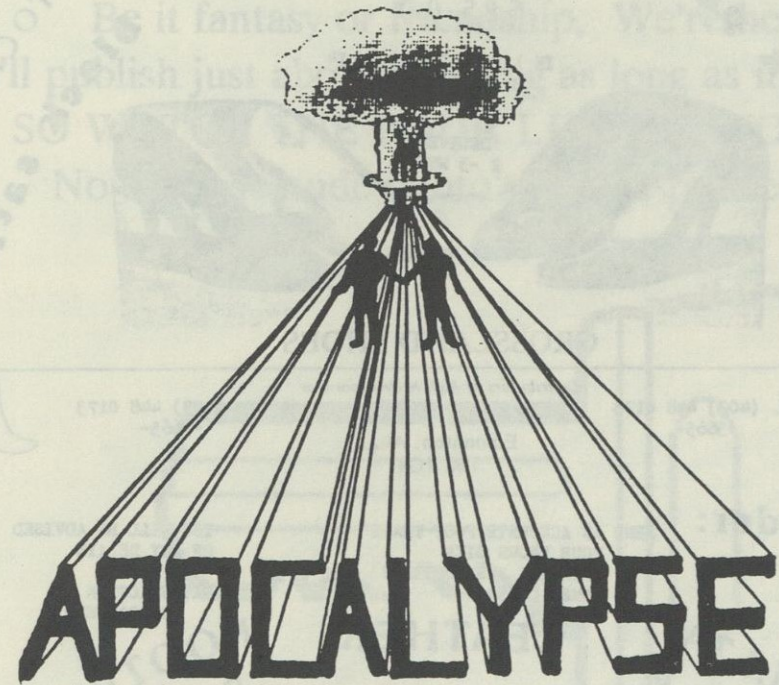

Chores aside, other oddities occurred in my early childhood. As far back as I can remember, I never went out for Halloween unless I was totally dressed female. The costume had to be complete from the inside out. For some reason, my mother revelled in recreating me as feminine as she could. Although noone could see, it would not do unless I had the right undergarments on, dress and accessories coordinated, perfume and makeup in all the proper places. Not knowing any better at the time, I quickly learned to enjoy this lavishment of attention and look forward to every subsequent Halloween. In my mind, I determined my mother loved me more as a little girl. Nothing else seemed to explain this attention I was receiving that I so longed for that I never seemed to receive any other time.

I seemed to always be at my mother's side doing things for her I felt, even then, my sister should have been doing. Washing her back was a common chore, applying talc to her girdle, and fastening her garters when she dressed never seemed to be anyone's duty but mine. Admittedly, I learned to enjoy seeing my mother's semi-nude body until I felt I needed to have my own wardrobe of panties, bras, garters, and nylons. And like so many others, because I had no money to buy my own, I would steal bits and pieces from my mother and even relatives when they visited.
